Are You Prepared to Teach Your Inclusion Classes?

EDU 615 / ELE 615 TEACHING SPECIAL LEARNERS IN MUSIC EDUCATION

3 Graduate Credits

Graduate Session - July 6 - 23, 2010 (Three Weeks)

9:00 - 11:45 AM (Mon - Fri)

Instructor - ELISE SOBOL

With pop charts, jazz standards and structures from the classics, you can jumpstart, strengthen your position, and boost your confidence for successful inclusion teaching in your classroom. You can access the ability of ALL your students by techniques and strategies that facilitate process and progress in other areas such as language, mathematics, critical thinking, and social emotional learning. This class will feature substantial background information and practice for educators in classroom and performance settings to design standards-based instruction with adaptations for students whose disorders require educational interventions. Three credit course ($525 per credit). Course elective welcomes current graduate students as well as certificated teachers for professional development credit.

ELISE SOBOL, guest instructor, award winning educator/author (An Attitude and Approach for Teaching Music to Special Learners) brings over twenty-five years of teaching experience in special education and pre-K through college to Five Towns College. Known for her international programs “Enrich Each Day the Musical Way”, “Bridges for Learning with Music” and “Reaching Higher with Music in Education”, Elise Sobol is a popular clinician to school districts and serves as the New York State School Music Association Music for Special Learners Chairperson. She is an adjunct professor at New York University and C.W. Post/Long Island University and full-time music in special education teacher at the Rosemary Kennedy School for students with autism and developmental disabilities.
